

Memory Techniques to Aid Revision

Developing pupils' memory techniques to improve general recall in learning

Wednesday 9 November 2016

Morning 9.00am-12.00pm or Afternoon 1.00pm-4.00pm

Half day sessions – only £70* per person

The Training Centre, OLCHS, Fulwood, PRESTON

This course is aimed at teachers and teaching assistants, particularly those with students who find remembering information challenging.

Do you sometimes wish you had a wider range of strategies to support students' long term learning and revision? Would you like to develop your ideas about how your own memory works and discover how you can model this to help students learning?

- This course will offer some practical ideas and simple memory techniques to take back to students in school across a range of subjects.
- It will look at motivating students and nurturing supportive approaches to revision.

Practical ideas to use in YOUR classroom

Dr Nancy Walbank has developed and adapted some simple memory tools and techniques that can be used to help revision or just to improve general recall in learning. Much of her work in this area has developed from working with dyslexic people who struggled to recall how to spell words. She also looks at the way in which the words we use can help memory and how to motivate reluctant learners.

"Since coming to see Nancy, my daughter's learning and confidence have been transformed!"

Cost: £70 per person including refreshments

*Cost - £55 per person for members of the Catholic Teaching Alliance.
